

Disclosed is a shaped article comprising a continuous first polymer phase having dispersed therein microbeads of a cross-linked second polymer, which microbeads are bordered by void space, wherein the monomers from which the second polymer is derived are selected to provide microbeads that are both low-yellowing and thermally stable.